

LONG ISLAND PULSE

<http://bit.ly/2iF17GZ>

December 26, 2016

Raise a Mimosa at Long Island New Year's Brunch 2017

GOOD EATS

beth ann clyde | DECEMBER 26, 2016

Nothing gets Long Islanders out of bed quite like brunch, even if they stayed up way past their bedtimes the night before. Perhaps it's why it's become the unofficial first meal of the New Year around here. Cure with the hair of the dog, indulge in French toast (that diet starts Jan. 2) and raise one more flute at Long Island New Year's Brunch 2017.

Restaurant Mirabelle, Stony Brook

Fresh meets French meets upscale meets laid-back at this Lessing's staple. The comfy sofas with checkered pillows offer a French countryside feel and Chef Guy Reuge's offerings don't disappoint. On New Year's Eve his kitchen will be busy cooking up chafing dishes, steamed snow crab claws and homemade cookies, pies, pastries and a cascading chocolate fountain that just screams, "Happy New Year." Unlimited champagne and mimosas will be served. Go