From chocolate fondue to steak-and-wine, Long Island restaurants are putting together menus that will make even card-carrying members of the anti-Valentine's Day movement want to book a table Feb. 14. Pulse played dinnertime cupid by rounding up the top Long Island Valentine's Day 2017 offerings.

Sandbar, Cold Spring Harbor

Upscale meets effortless at this sleek, nautical-themed restaurant. The elegant dining room includes 11 chandeliers, ample windows and waterfront paintings by local artists. The food is known to be impressive without trying too hard, perhaps like your main squeeze was at first blush. Sandbar's Valentine's Day menu includes a roasted rack of lamb, which is cooked with cranberry and served with sweet potato for a dish that truly warms the soul even on a cold winter's night. Traditional romantics will love splitting a plate of chocolate covered strawberries. Go
