

<https://nwsdy.li/2zy2n58>

November 5, 2018

LIFESTYLE/RESTAURANTS/FEED ME

Long Island restaurants open for Thanksgiving

If your family is too big for your dining table, your kitchen is being renovated, or you'd rather leave the cooking and shopping to someone else, make a reservation at a restaurant and let the staff cater your Thanksgiving dinner. Here are some choices for eating out on Turkey Day:

Sandbar (55 Main St., Cold Spring Harbor, 631-498-6188) is featuring an eclectic a la carte holiday menu. Start off your meal with butternut squash soup with pumpkin seeds ($10) or duck tacos with daikon, jalapeno, and hoisin sauce ($16). Opt for roasted turkey ($30) as a main, or go with seared sea scallops and corn, mushrooms, sorrel, and Aleppo pepper ($34). For dessert there is classic pumpkin pie ($12) as well as apple spice ricotta doughnuts with crème anglaise ($12).