MANHATTAN • BROOKLYN • LONG ISLAND • EAST END

For us, warm weather means spending long days swimming in the pool, building sand castles at the beach and eating our weight in ice cream. Our days in the sun leave us peaceful and content, wondering what kind of adventure the next day will bring. After a week filled with sun, sand and salt, our favorite way to start the weekend is with a family dinner at one of Long Island's many waterfront restaurants.

There is nothing more relaxing than watching the boats pass by and hearing the waves lapping against the bulkhead as you enjoy a tasty meal. We look forward to visiting as many of these bayfront restaurants as we can!
